More of what you're searching for

The need for immediately accessible business information isn't something we need to explain to you. No matter what your role is – credit manager, corporate or law librarian, competitive intelligence professional, strategic planner, sales manager, business development professional, market research or purchasing manager – the world you live in isn't just changing daily... it's changing by the hour. And you know that the decisions you make are only as good as the information you base them on. We can help.

SkyMinder is the first service of its kind to put everything you need together in one place. That includes the reliable business and financial information you're looking for, the convenience of single-entry searching, and the value of a service where you search for free, and pay only for what you need.

SkyMinder On-Demand Service delivers customized reports, hard-to-find data

For anything that you can't find immediately, or searches you don't have time to carry out yourself, simply send an inquiry to SkyMinder's On-Demand Service. For a report based on your specific requests, the On-Demand Service takes advantage of long-standing working relationships with local information providers all over the world. The international On-Demand Service has access to data sources not available online and foreign-language databases that are incomprehensible to most. Especially valuable is the team's ability to access quality reports on countries where information collection is a challenge – Asia, the Middle East, Eastern Europe and Latin America.

The solution for what you need

No matter what you're researching or how you're planning to use the information you gather, we're here to help... every step of the way. Our online system is designed so you have easy access to critical answers. Our pre-formatted reports are ready to use. And we have a team of international search experts ready to help you solve everything from complex research needs, to routine searches that you don't have time to carry out yourself. More of what you're searching for. SkyMinder On-Demand Service

The information you're searching for may not be available on standard databases. We can help. Leveraging our long-standing relationships with local information providers, our worldwide business intelligence experts can do the searching and analysis for you.

SkyMinder's On-Demand Service provides strategic information on specific companies, such as clients, potential suppliers or agents, with market data and personalized analysis in the form of "Freshly Investigated Credit Reports", compiled on request according to specific client requests.

The SkyMinder On-Demand Service also assists customers in benchmarking activities, providing a different growth outlook and comparative profiler, and industry trend reports. The service compiles and provides lists of companies which match the client's specific requirements.

Cost and delivery time vary depending on the scope of your request, and will be provided when your request is received.

How SkyMinder works

SkyMinder offers the convenience of a Deposit Account so buying reports is as quick and efficient as it can be; all reports are priced and deducted from your account individually.

Alternatively, occasional users may wish to take advantage of the Pay-As-You-Go account option, allowing users to access SkyMinder as and when they need to, purchasing individual reports online by credit card.

To monitor and organize your account, we offer the "My Balance" link – one-click access to current account information day or night.

Plus, you can set your own password-protected endorsement fields to relate each purchase to a specific project or client, and manage expense distribution.

Finally, as flexibility is one of SkyMinder's most important assets, we offer a range of pricing options.
